

SCIENCE CAFE

A STILLWATER COMMUNITY SERIES:

Potential Impacts of Oil and Gas Exploration

Stillwater Public Library Auditorium, 1107 S. Duck
All programs will begin at 6:30 pm.

Drilling Basics, Thurs., May 29

Learn basic facts about the drilling process and hydraulic fracturing.

Speakers: Todd Halihan, Ph.D. is a Professor of Hydrogeophysics in Geology.

Chad Penn, Ph.D. is an Associate Professor in Soil and Environmental Chemistry for Plant and Soil Sciences.

Communities and Housing, Thurs., June 5

Learn basic information about community issues.

Speakers: Dave Shideler, Ph.D., is an Assistant Professor and Oklahoma Cooperative Extension Service (OCES) Community Development Specialist.

Gina Peek, Ph.D. is an Assistant Professor and OCES Housing and Consumer Specialist.

Costs and Benefits, Thurs., June 12

Learn basic facts about state and federal environmental laws that have implications for industry, communities, and consumers.

Larry Sanders, Ph.D., is a Professor and OCES Agricultural Economist.

Shannon Ferrell, J.D., is an Associate Professor and OCES Agricultural Law Specialist.

Forum, Thurs., June 19

Learn about Oklahoma agencies and resources.

Photo by Daniel Foster

<http://www.pixsy.com/collection/natural-gas>

Science Café highlights interesting, relevant and current science-related research, and features brief presentations followed by discussion and questions. Events are free and open to the public. No science background is assumed or required.

Information: Call OSU Library at 405-744-2376 or send email through <http://www.library.okstate.edu/forms/newsite.htm>, or visit the Stillwater Public Library web site at library.stillwater.org, email askalibrarian@stillwater.org or call 405-372-3633

